Sometimes the internet produces something that surprising but at the same time predictable, such is the Human Calendar. Made over a two year period with pictures of friends and family by Craig Giffen of Portland, Oregon, the human calendar is exactly what it sounds like, pictures of people holding signs with the month, days of the week and dates to make up the calendar. If you're wondering why the people look like they are posing for the frame shots in the TV series "The Brady Bunch" it's because it was that famous opening video that inspired the human calendar.
